City Power implements a new strategy to reduce reliance on externally contracted services

City Power has embarked on a new strategy to replace some services provided by labour contracts with internal resources.

In implementing the strategy, the utility will capacitate its internal resources by recruiting electricians, technicians, and engineers as full-time employees.

Currently, these labour contracts are renewed by City Power on a month-to-month basis.

Based on this arrangement, City Power has the ability to end these labour contracts by issuing a one-month written notice to the labour contractors.

However, City Power has taken a magnanimous decision as a matter of courtesy, to formally issue all labour contractors with six-month written notices during the month of November 2022, that the current labour contracts will not be continued beyond the 31st of May 2023.

As part of the new way of doing things, City Power will procure externally, only specialized services which are not available in the company.

City Power is confident that this decision will assist the company to save costs on contracted services while at the same time contributing towards job creation within the City of Johannesburg.
