Thank you very much to all the community media who have partnered with us, we appreciate your partnership because you play a key role in sharing these education series with our communities.

Greetings to my Co-host Dr Fundile Nyati and Mr Collins Hans. Dr Nyati is also our long time partner who ensures that these shows happen every week, he is our resident Dr who is also making waves in the area of community / civic education. Greetings to all the listeners, all our viewers, all the leadership present, officials, and a Special Greeting to my guest tonight, Mr Thabo Manyoni – The Chairperson of the Demarcation Board.

Ladies and Gentleman, these engagements are for the sole purpose of educating our communities on the business of council, and today we unpack the ward delimitation process of Local Government. Every five years, the Municipal Demarcation Board (MDB) delimits wards in metropolitan and local municipalities for electoral purposes.

In summary, wards are delimited, or determined by the MDB. This involves the division of the whole geographic area of a municipality into smaller geographic areas, called wards. Consultations with planning and geographical information management officials from municipalities lets the MDB align draft wards by considering local inputs and addressing geographic barriers.

These consultations allow municipalities to show residents in their areas what the MDB is proposing when it comes to wards in their municipalities. If they do not agree with proposals, they need to work through alternatives, following the rules and guidelines provided, and the process must be concluded ideally not less than 10 months before the local government elections.

I must say that in this delimitation cycle, there have been various concerns raised by our communities and councillors.

I therefore thought it prudent to create a platform where we can engage with the Demarcations team directly, so that our communities begin to fully understand the process, what it's importance is, the criteria used in the delimitation process, the stakeholders involved, public participation process and how all of this affects them as the ordinary citizen. We invite community members to engage us and make their input or comments on the various platforms that we have made available.

Let me welcome my guest this evening, who is Mr Thabo Manyoni, the Chairperson of the Municipal Demarcation Board. Thank you very much for joining us sir, we are honoured to have you on our platform.

So lets get straight into it. Perhaps before I hand over to Mr Hans, let me start by simply asking: what is the concept of Ward Delimitation, and perhaps in answering that question if the Chairperson could touch on the Legislative framework or what the law says about the delimitation process...

MORE QUESTIONS:

1. Who are the stakeholders that are involved in the process and what is their role?

3. How important is public participation in the process, and how should it be rolled out
4. How does this process affect the ordinary citizen?
